A MESSAGE OF THE WRATH TO COME TO BRIBERS AND BRIBED.

The Highest Court Susinius the Conviction at All Points and so Beclares the Law that Other Convictions Are Likely-Three Trials Impending-The Tues of the Bribe Givers Coming-Jackne Cruetty Tetcked.

The Court of Appeals leaves Jachne to his fate. Judges Andrews, Ruger (C. J.), Danforth, Miller, and Finch agree in affirming his conviction of bribe taking. Judges Rapailo and Earl dissent.

It has not been safe since the case was argued at Albany for anybody who did not believe that the conviction would be affirmed to stroll into District Attorney Martine's office and say so. Although it is a part of the duty of the office to suppress betting, the rash visitor was promptiv asked how much he wanted to bet on his retical opinions. Lawyer Peter Mitchell had this experience yesterday morning. He hazarded the opinion that the conviction would be reversed, and said that he was prepared to eack it with money or the equivalent,

F "I'll take you up for a $10 hat!" exclaimed Detective Sergeant Reilly.
"And I'll capture you for a $5 hat." interposed Supply Clerk Merzbach. Done," said Mr. Mitchell, nonchalantly.

At that instant-11:25 A. M.-a telegraph messenger darted up to Private Secretary Penney's deck with a telegram from Assistant Distriot Attorney Nicoll, who was at Albany, saying. "The Jachne case is affirmed."

Lawer Mitchell gloomily tendered an X to Sergeant Reilly and a V to Supply Clerk Merzbach, and retired to his office in Broadway to earn some more money. Mr. Martine telephoned Inspector Byrnes right away, and said to the reporters:

"It is a most important decision, because it creates a precedent and shows that a dishonest public official can be convicted of bribery and not escape the consequences of his crime through any technicality. It leaves me absolutaly free to follow up the other indicted Aldermen of 1884, and those who are charged with bribing them. I may try some of them this month. If a clue to additional information that I ought to follow up before I so to trial should be put into my hands, or any other equally good reason should present itself. I may change my mind. The trials will in all probability be in the Ueneral Sessions."

Have you selected the cases first to be

"Have you selected the cases first to be tried?"

"I have three prominently in my mind, selected because I think the chances of conviction are greater than in the other cases. Politics has nothing to do with the selection. One man belongs to one faction of the Democracy and two to another."

"Is Kirk one of the three?"

"I must decline to answer that question."

Mr. Martine intimated that indictments against the bribe givers (who are supposed to be keeping Billy Mojoney on a salary in Montreal will be found by the present Grand Jury, its said he had no fear that the indicted Aldermen would run away. They can't afford it, in the first place, being under $25,000 bail each; and, secondly, they are closely watched.

"Is there any truth in the report that you have detected one of Alderman McQuade's bondsmen in mortgaging property?"

"There is, He has been before me within the last ten minutes to explain. I find that he has mortgaged property, but not property included in McQuade's bail bond, It is impossible for any of the bondsmen of the boodie Aldermen to dispose of the property covered by the bail bonds. The Register has a standing order to notify me daily of all of their real estate transactions."

Just then Inspector Byrnes hurried into the ing order to notify me daily of all of their real estate transactions."

Just then Inepector Byrnes hurried into the ante-room. "Is the news from Albany true?" he eagerly inquired of Private Secretary Penney, and then he had a little hallelujah service on his own hook. He went in and saw Mr. Martine, and was presumably requested to redouble the watch on the boodlers. Mr. Byrnes said he wanted to have a talk with George W. Alter, Jachne's assistant in the Broome street fence. Alter was taken up to Police Headquarters, where it is supposed Byrnes tackled him for evidence against the boodlers. After an hour Alter was taken back to the Tombs.

Ex-Alderman Walte, in the House of Detention, in Mulberry street, learned the news from the cries of the newshoys. The People's Charley is not allowed to talk about the Broadway cases.

ne bad or foolish friend telegraphed to Some bad or foolish friend telegraphed to Jashue at 9 o'clock yesterday morning that the decision was in his favor. The first despatch was sent to the Sing Sing keeper who has charge of the company of convicts to which Jachne belongs. The despatch was shown to Jachne while he was turning shirts in the laundry, and it cheered himup mightily. After dinner the Warden went into the laundry and told him that the first despatch was a mistake. The color left Jachne's face like a flash, and his head dropped upon his breast. A moment later he turned away with a face that looked the picture of misery and went back to the laundry table and resumed his unending job.

"I can't see anybody." he said to Warden Brush when the reporters began to arrive. "I want to be alone and to think over this." Noboly but reporters came there to see him.

want to be alone and to think over this." Nobody but reporters came there to see him.

The fiteen indicted Aldermen and ex-Aldermen who still abide in New York were all around yesterday the same as usual. They said they would not fee. Ex-Alderman Fullgraff reasserted his innocence, and O'Neil and shells laughed at any suggestion of danger. A lawyer who has acted as counsel for some of the indicted Aldermen, said:

"I should strongly advise the indicted men to leave the country at once. They may be innocent, but in the present state of public feeling it would take very little to convict them; $25,000 is a good deal of money to throw away,
but bester lose it than endure a week of agony during ine trial, and take the great risk of a conviction." Members of the present Board of Aldermen expressed sorrow at the result and sympathy with the tamilies of the indicted men. One said:

"The men may keep up their pluck, but this will be a terrible blow to their wives. The women have all been led to believe that the Jaenne verdict would be reversed, and now this house has tailed them, they will be filled with despair. No seen for the women to-night."

Another Alderman said: "De Lacy was so sure of coming back from Canada after this decision that he has neglected to draw his sairy as Alderman, and it is waiting for him now. ary as Aiderman, and it is waiting for him now.

t will be bad news for him and Dempsey." Ex-Alderman Louis Wendel went to see awyer Newcombe, but found him too busy to talk.

"I have not determined what I shall do."

Mr. Newcombe, who is counsel for most of the fifteen, said to a Sux reporter: "It is possible I may ask for a reargument. I haven't had time to think about it, or to read the decision. I shall not be able to say anything until tomorrow."

As the Jashne matter is now settled for good. the Aldermen will proceed to elect his success-or, and the old struggle for the place will be POINTS OF THE DECISION.

Judge Andrews writes the majority opinion of the Court of Appeals. He says that section 58 of the Pensi Code, under which Jachne was convicted, supersedue section 72 of the Consolidation act, although the Pensi Code was the earlier act. The Consolidation act in express terms provides that the Pensi Code sital have the same effect upon it as though it had been the later of the two acts—that is, the Pensi Code governs when the statutes are in conflict. Under the Pensi Code Jachne got nine years and ten months imprisonment. Under the Consolidation set the extreme pensity is two years and $5,000 tine.

The Court holds that section 72 of the Pensi Code applies to bribery committed by municipals. Code applies to bribery committed by municipal officers. It does not say "municipal officers" in so many words, but it does in terms apply to "n person who executes any of the apply to "a person who executes any of the functions of a public office" and who is not else-where designated. The Court does not doubt that this includes municipal officers as well as others who hold office, under the laws of the State. The law of 1853 extended the bribery

The law of 1853 extended the brio-ry laws to cover certain municipal offices; the law of 1869 extended them to cover any person holding office under the laws of the State," undoubted y meaning to include municipal ofindoubted y meaning to include municipal of-lears; and then came the Penal Code. It is inquestionable, the Court says, that a bribery statute of general problems. ed which did not embrace bribery of municipal lears. In point of form, the court think, the indictment of Jashne was good under eitner statute. leads to absurdity and manifest injustice. A point that has an interesting bearing on future bribery trials is disposed of as follows:

A point that has an interesting bearing on future bribery trials is disposed of as follows:

By section 335 of the tode of Criminal Procedure it is decisred that the confession of a defendant is not sufficient to warrant a conviction without additional profit that the crime charged has been committed. There was evidence given on the trial showing that the Broadwar Raliway grant was passed under circumstances which, while they may have been consistent with a horse nevertheless indicates the defendant unusual motives excited as indicates the defendant unusual motives entitled in the confession, are strongly corroborative of its truth. It insisted that under the status the confession, and that me evidence was given which, discounceded with the confession, had a legal tendency to prove the hold of the crime.

It would be a sufficient answer to this point that it is not raised by any exception. But we are of opinion that when, in addition to the confession, there is no construction are construction as of the confession of the substances which, although the lease cannot be taken from the jury for a non-compliance with the equipment of the saintie, for a non-compliance with the requirement of the staintie. The words of the statue, "additional proof that the grine charged has been committed," seem to imply that the confession is to be treated as compress without without corroboration to warrant a convention.

The case was carefully tried. No evidence in fever of convertion.

The case was carefully tried. No evidence in favor of the defendant was excluded and none admitted against him of doubtful competency. The judgment should be affirmed.

Judge Rapallo writes the dissenting opinion. He holds that the Legislature in any opinion. Judge Rapallo writes the dissenting opinion. He holds that the Legislature, in enacting the Consolidation act, did not design to declare in the same breath that section 58 thereof should he of an effect, but should be superseized by the Penal Code already enacted. The Legislature, Judge Rapallo holds, knew that general legislation on a particular subject must give way to special legislation on the same subject, and that section 58 would stand, as it had stood for nearly twenty-five years, making bribe taking by a New York municipal officer punishable by two years in the penitentiary and $5,000 fine.

MINISTERS URGE EARLY CLOSING.

A Mass Meeting in Williamsburgh of Overworked Clerks and their Friends,

The Clothing Clerks' Early Closing Association of the Eastern District of Brooklyn united with the Dry Goods Cierks' Progressive Association in holding a mass meeting last evening in the New England Congregational Church, Mayor Whitney presided. His Honor, with the speakers, sat surrounded by tree palms and flowers in pots. A brilliant background to the speakers was formed by a national flag hung across the pulpit. The cheerful strains of a band enlivened the proceedings from a place of security behind the Stara and Stripes. The Rev. W. R. Thomas of the New England Church led off, and Bradford Howard, President of the Cothing Clerks' Association, followed him. The Rev. W. L. Phillips of St. John's Protestant Episcopal Church said he feit sure that employees would be benefitted by early closing. It was not necessary that they should stay at home to be benefitted, either. They need amusement and recreation away from business and from home, and there was a good deal of nonsense uttered about clerks misusing their time when not behind the counter. pit. The cheerful strains of a band

Father Malone of St. Peter's and St. Paul's

Father Malone of St. Peter's and St. Paul's Roman Catholic Church had been announced as one of the speakers. He was not at the meeting, but he sent a letter which was read, heartily favoring early closing. Rabbi L. Wintner of Tempie Beth Elohim declared that it was useless for the cierks to appeal to purchasers not to buy at night, because so long as the stores were open people would buy. Those whom the cierks should appeal to are the store-keepers.

The rabbi was applauded when he quoted one of the ten commandments in favor of early closing. He said that when it was commanded that six days work was enough work in one week it was not intended that work should be done at night after working all day.

The Rev. E. F. Terhune of the Reformed Churchitook for his text, we expect mercyffrom Godand justice from man, it was unjust, he argued, for any man to compel another to work more than twelve bours a day. He worked fourteen hours a day himself, but it was unjust. The Rev. J. Hyatt Smith of the East Congregational Church called on all who favored the early closing movement to rise to their feet. Evorybody in the church got up, and there was great applause and music by the band. Speeches were made by the venerable Archdeacon Kirby, the Rev. Edward M. McGuffey of Hoty Trinity Protestant Episcopal Church, and the Rev. James H. Darlington of Christ Church.

Mr. Gowen Cannot Understand It.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.-Ex-President Gowen the Reading road said to-day, relative to they. Pattison's letter to Attorney-General Cassidy regarding raiload combinations: "I cannot understand it. The Gov ot bring good prices. We mine every year about not bring good prices. We mine every year about 35,000,000 tons of anthracite coal in Pennsylvania, of which three-quarters is sent to other parts. The continercial prosperity of Pennsylvania depends upon her ability to find steady markets at good prices for all her products. But the Governir seems to think that it is better for Pennsylvania to dig out its valuable coal and give it to the other Sates for nothing. This confounds all my ideas of political economy. Again, there are probably 100,000 we kingmen engaged in the coal traffic. The better the price of coal the more they led for wages, and it is now too late to deny that good wages and prespectively of hand in hand. If the Governor and the Atturney-General get after these 100,000 men with their quo warrantos to bring about reduced wages, there will be a pretty kettle of fish about election time in the coal regions."

FORTY SLATES DISAPPEAR. SUDDEN CESSATION OF BETTING AT

eniting President Dwyer-Fast Time by Volunte, Ressle June, Glenner, and Climax. Forty bookmakers erected their slates at the opening of the Brooklyn Jockey Club's October meeting yesterday. They dettly chalked the odds opposite the borses' names baif an hour before the first beil rang, and then waited for customers. Investors came slowly. To hurry them up, commissioners began to shout the odds boldly. Business was growing lively, when above the din Boss Commissioner Stedeker's voice rang out: "Let her go, hova!" The forty boards came down in a twinkling, all signs of public betting disappeared, while the operators mingled with the dense throng that overflowed the pavilion.

The word then passed round that District Attorney Ridgway had visited the Sheriff's office and informed Under Sheriff Hugh Me-Laughlin, in the absence of Sheriff Farley, that the time had come to stop betting on the race the time had come to stop betting on the race courses in Kings county. Stedeker had consulted with President Dwyer on the situation, and in accordance with his request the order was given out to stop betting at once. This was compiled with so far as outward signs went, but still a great deal of money changed hands on the five excellent races of the day.

The sport began with a mile dash, which the favorite, Gisaner, won in the fast time of 1:41's. Dwyer Brothers flily Bessie June won the three-quarters of a mile race for two-venrolds, with 112 bounds up, in the very creditable time of 1:15's, and Lucky Baldwin's cott Voiante captured the First O-tober Stakes, at a mile and a quarter, earrying 123 pounds, in 2:08's. AMUSEMENTS. A New Play Opens Daly's Senson.

Something complicated in the way of a device for elroumventing the ticket speculators, involving a slow examination of persons and papers at the entrance, kept bundreds of people crowded in the vestibule of Daly's Theatre last evening while the play began inside, Later a great issue of gas into the auditorium caused a second spell of discomfort. But it was an affable and exceptionally fashionable assemblage, even for this house, and it permitted itself to be demonstratively enthusiastic in receiving the members of the company as, one after another, they came into view. Heartier greetings are seldom given to actors no more after another, they came into view. Heartier greetings are soldem given to actors no more eminent, and the work of emilorives was not discernible in the prolonged applause.

The comedy with which the season began was "After Business Hours," and it had been taken from the German by Mr. Daly, to be iocalized in New York, and adapted to the peculiarities of his players. In its new condition it was ajoint exhibition of the man-dressmaking business and Wall street speculation. It was not dramatic with more than a faint gimmer of plot, and it had but the slightest coherency of sustained interest. A husband and wife went secrety from each other they got into leadousy and a complication of difficulties. There were no actual views of Wall street, but the wife's desire for fine costumes, for the gratification of which she dabbied so unlucking in stocks, seemed to put on the singe a dressmaking establishment with its masculine proprietor. The episodes therein were laughabe, as were many of the misunderstandings that grew out of the woman's vain alternations. After Business Hours' was a diversion, because it entertained the intelligent audience lightly and mirthfully, but it was condemnable on account of its unnecessary lack of story, for surely one could have been invented to hold the same collection of incidents. It was neted with all the viavoity, nicety, and naturalness which the Daiy company can command: it presented scenes of perfect realism, with rooms that were not suggestive of canvas, and with turniture that could be faced about without disclosing sham sides; its clothes and their weners might have gone into any assemblage of fashion without becoming an incongruous element; but all these excellences of performance seemed wasted on a play so vagne and vaccuous, even though success be conceded to it as a producer of merriment.
